

Esnatech joins higher education IT community at the ACUTA Winter Seminar

Richmond Hill, ON, Canada, January 17, 2012 — Esnatech, a leader in cloud-based unified communications, is exhibiting at the Association for Information Communications Technology Professionals in Higher Education (ACUTA) Winter Seminar January 22 – 25 in Palm Springs, California.

Higher education institutions are increasingly turning to cloud-based email and application solutions to reduce costs and increase productivity. In fact, there are more than 15 million students, faculty and staff using Google Apps for Education today.

Esnatech's award-winning Office-LinX™ unified communications software helps universities seamlessly connect their existing telecommunications technologies with Google Apps for Education and other cloud-based applications. Esnatech staff will be demonstrating the Office-LinX software, the only UC solution that integrates messaging, presence and mobility with Google Apps and provides true interoperability with leading phone systems from Avaya/Nortel, Cisco, Mitel and many more.
